Independent Evaluation Office
of the International Monetary Fund

Director, Independent Evaluation Office

Description

The Independent Evaluation Office (IEO) was established by the IMF's Executive Board in July 2001 and provides objective and independent evaluation on issues related to the Fund. The IEO operates independently of Fund management and at arm's length from the Executive Board. It enhances the learning culture of the Fund, promotes understanding of the Fund's work, and supports the Executive Board in its governance and oversight. See the IEO website www.ieso-imf.org for the terms of reference of the IEO and the IEO Director.

The Director will coordinate objective and independent evaluation of programs and policies relevant to the mandate of the Fund. These may include, for example, evaluations of the policies and operating procedures of the organization, as well as the way in which these policies and procedures are implemented. An important objective of these evaluations is to improve the Fund's ability to draw lessons from its experience and more quickly integrate improvements into its future work.

This position will report to the Executive Board of the Fund. It requires proven competence and integrity, with substantial experience and background in the management, implementation, and/or evaluation of economic policy, and proven ability to take actions based on independent judgment. It also requires outstanding leadership qualities and proven managerial skills. The successful candidate will have established analytical skills in economics; familiarity with the Fund's mandate and operations; and an awareness of the manner in which such economic policies can interact with the institutional, political, and social objectives of Fund members.
